What is the significance of the word "Canonical" in terms of techniques in statistics?

Give an example of pseudo-replication that can be found in research (other than the one stated).

What are the two major differences (i.e. steps) that make CCA different from CA?